

Biography:

Amanda Crow

Amanda Crow has been a Senior Sonographer at The Children's Hospital at Westmead, Sydney, Australia, for 30 years. She has a Bachelor Degree in Applied Science, a Masters Degree in Health Sciences (Medical Sonography) from the University of Sydney.

Amanda was a guest lecturer in the graduate diploma course in medical sonography at Sydney University for 10 years and has been the ultrasound clinical advisor on the School of Medical Radiation Sciences External Advisory Committee at Sydney University.

Amanda has presented lectures and posters at local, national, and international meetings, and has been involved in many paediatric workshops.

